“Paint the 10th Red!”

Candidate for 10th Congressional District GOP Chairman

Short Term Focus & Long Term Mission

The Republican Party has two distinct objectives, which often overlap, but are never contradictory. The Party has a short term focus – to win elections. The Party also has a long term mission - of building the Party infrastructure so that it can successfully field, support and elect nominees for public office beyond the immediate election cycle.

My campaign for 10th Congressional District Chairman has put forward an ambitious agenda to build both “focus and mission.”

This November is the first time in 12 years in a Federal election that there isn’t a Presidential or Senatorial candidate on the ballot, so in the 10th Congressional District, we will be focused like a laser beam on defending the only existing Republican seat in Northern Virginia. This is the hard ‘grassroots’ work that we all know so well. It’s the hand-to-hand politics that happens in every precinct.

While we focus in election years to get incumbents re-elected and to take seats held by Democrats, we still don’t forget our continuing mission to build, motivate and grow a political organization that reaches beyond one election, and carries with it our heritage, ideals and political DNA.

I believe a strong historical case can be made that the Party loses elections when we don’t have both this short term focus and long term mission working together.

When you and I join the Party we inherit the legacy and the promise of constitutional, conservative government. We stand on the shoulders of giants that have gone before us. We have the responsibility, and the honor, of handing off to new generations of conservatives the hope that is immortalized in President Reagan’s paraphrase; “.the last best hope of mankind.”

We do that as a Party. It matters. I'd be honored to lead our great 10th Congressional District in that manner as Chairman. God bless you, God bless our Commonwealth, and God bless America.
